Hi Eric:

Thanks very much for your email below. I have been on vacation and just returned to the office yesterday, so I am following up to thank you for the update re: Marin Water's approach to the restoration project and for including language in the bid documents to encourage contractors to use local sources for logs (including those on BCPUD property!). And, of course, we would be happy to meet you whenever you would like to come out and take an inventory of the downed trees.

All the best,

Jennifer

Hi Jennifer –

I called but was told you were off today. It's great news that some eucalyptus trees blew down and may be suitable for our purposes. Thanks for the offer! The latest news on our end is that we're putting together our bid package for restoration contractors and we're crafting language to encourage those contractors to use local sources for logs, including those on your property. Once we're through the stormy season I'd like to come out and take an inventory of those downed trees and maybe tag the ones that meet our specs.

Thanks again for the update.

Cheers,
Eric
